TU, Humanities and Social Sciences Major English, Bachelor's Level

The major English courses for the three-year Bachelor's level are designed to link up with and develop the I.A. major English courses in English. The particular addition to the B.A. syllabus is the introduction of literary theory. The component includes major Western foundational essays from the Greeks to the modern times. The rationale of these courses is to give students tools for systematic study and understanding of texts, and help them apply the tools in appreciating literary and other texts critically and creatively. Moreover, these courses attempt at inculcating in students a spirit of inquiry, logical reasoning and a taste for reading good literature. Furthermore, the courses look forward to the M.A. courses and prepare the groundwork for a more critical and detailed study of literature and other human disciplines at the post-graduate level.

Objective:

The objectives of major English are as follows:

1. to equip students with a sound background for the serious study of literature
2. to give students standard and cutting edge materials to study
3. to give students appropriate tools for interpreting, understanding, and creating texts

Structure of the Courses:

The three-year Major English programme in Tribhuvan University consists of five papers. In the first year there is one paper, in the second year two papers, and in the third year two papers.
